

Knowledge Edition 24

Resilience: Organisational and Personal

Paul Winter

There are lots of green shoots out there but sadly most of them are on trees. So we are going to have to kick start economic growth ourselves.

Nature gets to practice this process every year. In business, thankfully, we only get to practice the process every economic cycle.

The topic, therefore, for our summer series of seminars is rather obvious;

“Resilience: Organisational and Personal”.

We believe the way we react to major events is critical.

And the way we react to hundreds of minor events is simply learning.

Our Summer Corpra Knowledge seminars will look at the three key strategic acts of resilience:

- Clarifying your strategy
- Tightening up your infrastructure
- Making your people more agile

All have proven to produce tangible benefits growth and improved survival rates

They are designed for all sectors and professions at senior management, board and top end employee level.

Our previous events have been very popular and they are, of course, excellent networking opportunities.

We look forward to seeing you and good luck.

( Paul Winter is CEO of Corpra and Visiting Professor at Oxford Brookes University pwinter@corpra.co.uk )

( Richard Taylor is Managing Director of Corpra rtaylor@corpra.co.uk )

( Jonathan Strong is Director of Corpra jstrong@corpra.co.uk )